RE: Free, Family-Friendly Internet Access (Written Ex Parte Presentation in WT Docket 07-195)

Dear Chairman Martin and Commissioners:

The Internet has rapidly become an everyday part of American life. From telemedicine to distance learning to electronic shopping and content production, the list of web-enabled activities that demand broadband is growing rapidly. The resources available on the Internet allow us to be more productive and reach new markets around the globe. That is why broadband is not only a key to our quality of life today, but also to America's competitiveness tomorrow. Our fellow citizens feel so strongly about this issue that the Coalition for Free broadband Now has previously submitted into the record a petition signed by more than 50,000 Americans in support of free and family-friendly broadband.

Since then, Americans have continued to voice their strong support for more affordable access to broadband Internet. From the time that the FCC announced that it would conduct a rulemaking to set service rules for the 2155-2175 MHz band on August 31, 2007, more than 2,400 individuals from across the country submitted letters to the FCC and their Members of Congress supporting free and family-friendly broadband service. I have attached the list of those who have raised their voices in this incredibly important debate as well as a sampling of quotations from their letters.

The Commission should keep these comments in mind as it elucidates the type of public interest commitments that should be at the heart of the service rules for this band. The Coalition for Free Broadband Now believes that a free, family-friendly broadband service would greatly advance the public interest, consistent with the statutory obligations of the Commission and desires of the American people.

Very truly yours,

Kathleen Wallman
Chief Organizer,
Coalition for Free Broadband Now and Senior Adviser, M2Z Networks, Inc.

THE VOICE OF THE PUBLIC INTEREST

*Excerpts from Letters Supporting Free and Family-Friendly Broadband for All Americans in the AWS-3 Band **

“My family could easily afford high-speed internet, but only if we gave up eating and heating our home.”

- Christine Tindall, Detroit, MI

“Don't deprive those with limited income or resource to stay behind. They deserve the same consideration and access as anyone else.

“Beside M2Z would be doing just like local TV, which every one is privy. They want to operate in the same way. Ads would fuel their expense to operate. If other broadband companies lobby to stop M2Z from offering service to the less privilege it would be because of their obviously greed and concern to their shareholders. Well they had the same oportunity to offer this service.

“Like Star Trek, let M2Z Network go where no man has gone before. Approve their support for the nation communities, schools and libraries by offering family friendly Internet access to all.”

- Livia Landersjonez, North Highlands, CA

“If for no other reason, "The Education of Our Children" should be the first priority in your decision to support this Free, Family Friendly internet access!

“More fortunate children who have access to the internet when doing their homework or just satisfying their curiosity, and are able to develop skills and knowledge that are essential to EVERY child who may seek higher education or whose parents hope for a chance at a better future for their children. The education of these children who have computers at home moves ahead by leaps and bounds compared to a child whose parents can not provide it for them.

"This is a chance to provide ALL of our children with the "gift of knowledge" on the internet. When you stop and think of what a great gift it would be to our children, to provide them with all of the knowledge of the ages.....knowledge of electronics and of history and literature, health, science, music, astronomy, medicine, conservation, culinary arts, chemistry, gardening, economics, botany, nutrition, geography, art, photography, religion, poetry, politics, horticulture, agriculture, and ALL OF THE KNOWLEDGE OF THE ENTIRE WORLD that they COULD be exposed to on a free internet.....How could you say no?

"Can our children get into trouble on a Family Friendly Internet? I am positive that they will find a way! But the kind and severity and frequency of these problems would pale in comparison to the drugs, weapons, carnal knowledge, and physical violence that they are exposed to while playing at their own school and in the parks and streets of their own neighborhoods. Time spent on a Family Friendly Internet would be time that they are not at loose ends on the street."

- Patricia Dunn, Fridley, MN

"I personally live in rural Alabama, and have plans to take an online course in medical transcription. My area only supports dial-up internet service, which is not recommended by the school, but I have little choice if I wish to learn a new trade and become better able to support my family. I am unable to attend classes on a conventional campus due to inability to get back and forth that far a distance, and the cost of gas to do so. Dial up access is so slow, it will impede my learning process.

"As I also plan to work out of my home upon completion of the program, the slow connection will also affect my earning ability."

- Nicki Susan C. Lipham, Wedowee, AL

"Children today are very smart when it comes to computers. If the access isn't there for these sites that are unmoral and wrong than you won't have to babysit your child as much. My sister would benefit from this as I know a lot of young people in school would. Why do you have to pay so much for something that almost everyone uses. Shouldn't it be cheaper. I support this, think hard about it and I think you will too!"

- Melissa Jenks, Chelsea, MI

"I currently do not have internet service at my home due to the fact that the only service available to me is dail up modem access. Sure I could get a satellite dish and get wireless that way, but the cheapest I can find is $70.00 a month and I can't pay that much. Why in the world would my country try to keep it's people from have access to the internet? I worked in South Korea for two years (2004-2006) and that country is very proud of the fact that their citizens have internet accessibility nearly everywhere in their country. Shouldn't we (the country that invented the internet) at least be able to say that every citizen in the United States has accessibility to free wireless internet service? Wouldn't that be a good thing?

Please let M2Z networks give it a try!"

- Patrick E. McDonald, Altus, OK

"Please, do not make the biggest mistake of your life. This is a HUGE advancement in technology. 5 years ago wireless technology was almost unheard of to the average user, now we have the ability to make it avaible to all for free! I urge you, please make the right choice!"

- Matthew J Taylor, Erie, PA

"I am deeply concerned about the FCC's August 31, 2007 denial of M2Z networks request for spectrum to offer it's FREE internet service. I feel that the FCC decided that it's "process" for allocating spectrum was a higher priority than the well being of the very people our government is supposed to serve. The recent ruling also seemed to value the competitive "rights" of companies over the welfare of real people. (Companies which complained about a certain process being followed for allocating spectrum- though I suspect this was a thinly veiled "smoke screen" for trying to protect their market share).

"I was so excited to think of poor children in rural and urban areas being able to have access to the internet at speeds similar to those my kids can access since I can afford Comcast's $50/month fee. And unlike some well intentioned efforts to help people in need, there is a market driven strategy behind this model that makes it sustainable and "cost free" to the government. It seems win-win for everyone: poor families get the internet; taxes don't go up to accomplish this; the government gets paid for the spectrum through royalties over time; and all Americans have access to the internet when traveling, without having to pay $80 a month for a wireless broadband product. Oftentimes fixing a social problem is terribly complex or prohibitively expensive. This time (re. the digital divide) all that is necessary is to "green-light" a company that's willing to do it for us.

"I'm flabbergasted that my government would shoot this down. At the end of the day, life is about helping people. It's not about protecting the "rights" of companies to equal process to spectrum. Our system failed to keep that in mind when considering M2Z's request. Surely it's not too late to do the right thing."

"My family and I volunteer weekly to help Hispanic families in our area. Many of these families are parented by wonderful parents who are trapped in menial jobs. M2Z's plan along with many other efforts by people of good will would give their kids a shot at something better. Please use your positions of influence to advocate for what will best serve real people; especially those with big needs and a lot of catching up to do across the digital divide."

- Ben Pierce, San Carlos, CA

"I am a senior citizen and know that many in my position cannot afford access to the Internet. We would like to have affordable access so we can reach the Social Security Administration and other agencies we need to reach for information. Seniors and disabled people really need access to the internet as many of us are house bound."

- Carole Franda, Charlottesville, VA

"I am a retired senior citizen living in a area monopolized by a locally owned telephone company for telephone service, cable TV, and Broadband Internet services whom I do not care to do business with."

- Thomas G Burroughs, Rock Hill, SC

"Even where I conduct business there are internet dead zones not serviced by Time Warner Cable or At&t. This is a business hardship."

- Leslie Gomez, C.I.D., Carlsbad, CA

“Once online, many families are concerned about the growing threat to children of easily accessible indecent and pornographic material. And public safety organizations often can't work together due to incompatible data networks.

“There is a solution. All it takes is the will and determination to do it.

“For every one of the negatives; i.e internet porn, online predators, hackers, id thieves and the like, there are Americans whose use is perfectly legal and legitimate, and use the World Wide Web as a boundless source of information and services.

“In closing, I cannot stress the importance of the freedom of expression that is the Internet, and that Broadband access is changing the way that we, as a society, make use of the Internet. It has become indispensable to so many of our society, and to stop an opportunity to add to the access of all Americans is wrong-headed as can be.

“Please don't stand in the way of the progress that will bring Broadband access to millions of Americans”

- Kenneth Schultz, Fort Myers, FL

“Please support M2Z today. It just might catch us up to Europe and we could stop being a third world country at least on this subject.”

- Claudia Kasehagen, Albuquerque, NM

“A prime example of the lack of choices available to residents and businesses of rural America is Crockett County in West Tennessee, whose residents are captive to one telephone company for local service. This means that dial-up is their only choice for internet access unless they subscribe to an even more expensive satellite service.”

- Evelyn V. Finch, Alamo, TN

“If you don't support M2Z then what is your alternative for free internet access for all Americans? Surely YOU can resist the lobbying efforts of the big telcos and other wireless providers who have kept the US woefully behind the rest of the world with overpriced and lackluster service. If you don't like M2Z's proposal, what is your alternative?”

- Richard Carnwath, Birmingham, AL

“This, my dear humble public servants, is a battle for the heart and soul of this great nation, and the question of whether or not we will again prosper as a nation, or we fall behind, serving as nothing more than economic units for multi-national corporations....American ingenuity comes from its PEOPLE, and yet we have been stifled on the greatest information highway ever developed, in the name of corporate profit and control.”

- James Jude Courtney, Venice, CA

“I am old enough to remember that investor-owned electric companies wouldn't invest in supplying power to those of us who lived on farms. What finally brought our dairy and vegetable operations into the 19th century was a government sponsored program.

“Now there is someone who can do the same thing with the internet. Exactly the same; a utility which must be available to everyone.

“And this by private enterprise! How can you say "No.?"

- BettyAnne Hood, Lampasas, TX

“I'm a disabled retiree living below the poverty line.

“Use of the internet (no longer a luxury but a necessity) has become my primary means of viable communications with family, friends and my financial and health service providers.

“It is my main source of news, current affairs and health care information since off air television is severely limited in my location, and the cost of cable television exceeds the cost of dial up internet service.”

- Robert R. Rudolph, Waianae, HI

“Americans should have free broadband throughout the country. Please stop the Telecom giants from blocking the future. Our country needs this awesome capability to cause creativity to flower, enhance communications, and empower the voters.”

- Laurie Badley, Manassas, VA

“The big telecoms are handicapping the US with lobbying and placing us behind other developed countries in speed and access. Please, do what you can to ensure that we as a Nation return to leading the pack as far as internet access and speed.”

- Jeff Legato, San Luis Obispo, CA

“Competition is non-existent in America today. We pay some of the world's highest prices for terrible service. We may have 2 choices- cable or DSL. All have terribly slow speeds compared to England, Japan, and most of Europe. Citizens in England have over 200 high speed choices many offering 24-40 mbps at costs from 12-40 dollars per month. Here I pay $52 a month for 3 mbps and Comcast will not allow me to have higher speeds unless I pay for cable tv and digital phone.”

- Larry Lewis, Winter Garden, FL

“While large corporations work to secure the internet under their own control, America's broadband Internet goals are going unmet. The diversity and availability of CHOICE in equal-access providers is essential to the maintenance of America's position in the world. As the promise of fiber-optic broadband has faded with that technology somehow having been subsumed for profit(at public expense) are we to believe it would be any different for net-neutrality should the intent of the latest DOJ missive on this subject be upheld

“Please insure the promise of our internet future by supporting a free, open and equal-opportunity internet.”

- Tim Callahan, Asheville, NC

“This is a serious and fundamental issue to America. There is possibility of getting millions more people online is within sight and the only thing standing in its way is the government and their regulations. Let the internet be independent and free. Let democracy reign on the internet.”

- Jaron Siegel, Grand Rapids, MI

“Other nations, such as Japan, are years ahead of the US in terms of providing fast, affordable internet service to their citizens. The roadblock in the US seems to be the greed of the giant telecom companies--profit is more important to them than the product they provide. It's a shame that America lags behind the rest of the world in an area where it should be a leader.”

- Mike Szwarc, Hallettsville, TX

“Many Americans only have dialup either out of ignorance, lack of access or lack of funds for broadband service! What a nightmare. Why can't America have a national free broadband network? I am sure the same naysayers were around when America was deciding to join and then lead in the space race.”

- Keith Lathrop, Hendersonville, NC

“My Time-Warner basic cable/internet bill is just pennies away from the $100 mark each month. Our cable started out at $14.95 and AOL was $21.95 just a few years ago. As a family of 4 (2 daughters at the college level) dial-up is unimaginable.”

- Laurie Walton, Glenburn, ME

“This is one of the best ideas that I have ever heard. As a recruiter, I encounter many people who find it challenging to get limited access to the internet. As a result, their ability to be competitive in the workplace is severely impacted. Searching job opportunities, sending resumes, checking commuting distances and getting directions are just a few examples of how they are missing out on opportunities to improve their situations. It will also help our nation to become more knowledgeable regarding global, national, state and local events in everything from politics to product recalls.

For a while, people in many areas of the US have complained about the "dumbing down" of America. This would be an excellent opportunity to positively address that issue.

“Current providers broadband providers do not have much to worry about since many people choose to get premium services for a wide range of products. Let us be honest, many people enjoy adult content and gaming, and they will be open to paying a monthly fee to continue having access to those services. Even people who do not regularly use those service may prefer an internet experience that does not include advertising. Current providers will not be crippled by M2Z offering free broadband.

“Even if current providers managed to lose 5-10% of their consumer base, they would become a moderately profitable industry as opposed to a highly profitable one. Additionally, I am certain that their advisors are already planning on how to get subsidies if they can prove their businesses have been negatively impacted.”

- Solon Frazilus, Linden, NJ

“Our nation's future broadband system must be engineered to bridge the digital divide that now separates too many Americans because of their economic circumstances and where they live. We must extend to all Americans the opportunity to take part in e-commerce, use government services, access news, information and educational opportunities and participate in civic discourse online.”

- Candace Woodworth, Santa Rosa, CA

THE VOICE OF THE PUBLIC INTEREST

The following lists contains the names of the over 2,400 Americans who have raised their voices in support of free and family-friendly broadband in the AWS-3 Band since the FCC announced its intention to conduct a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking concerning that Spectrum
